Have you heard the news? Person County citizens will have a new Senior Center! The new center will be located at its former location on 121 Depot Street in Uptown Roxboro. The 12,000 square foot facility is being designed by the Raleigh firm, HH Architecture. After the generous donation of the building and land from the former Sr. Center by the City of Roxboro, Person County Commissioners decided to fund a new center at that site. Currently we are in the design phase of the process.

We invite interested members of the Person County / Roxboro community to the next community input meeting to be held on May 11 at 5:00 p.m. in the Person County office Building Auditorium. Architects from HH Architecture will be at the meeting to talk about and get community input on design. This will be the community's chance to see the design and hear the architects explain the process. Senior Center staff will also be in attendance to explain the specific needs and requirements for a Senior Center in North Carolina.

Person County residents enjoy a trip to Florida, sponsored by Person County Parks and Recreation Department and Person County Senior Center.
